The Associated Colleges of the St. Lawrence Valley want to help you in your relocation to the North Country.

The St. Lawrence Valley has many opportunities for professional couples—it is a great place to work, learn, play, and live! And we are excited to help you seize those opportunities, as we know that dual career couples are essential to the vibrancy of our local communities. The hundreds of spouses and partners of our faculty and administrators contribute to our communities as business owners, local officials, employees of a diversity of excellent businesses, volunteers, scholars, and community leaders.

So we have compiled this list of resources for your consideration as a starting point in your plans to make the St. Lawrence Valley your home.

After you have had a chance to look it over, feel free to give us a call.

We want you here, and stand ready to help.
THE ASSOCIATED COLLEGES' CENTER FOR INDEPENDENT SCHOLARS

The Center for Independent Scholars offers its Fellows the opportunity to pursue scholarly and professional interests in ways generally unavailable to those not employed by academic institutions.

Fellows are persons who are pursuing serious scholarly work. This work could include writing for publication, dissertation research, writing and preparation for a conference presentation or other scholarly expressions in a variety of formats, including creating work in print and digital media. Applicants must hold at least a master's degree and be unaffiliated with any institution.

Appointment to the Center for Independent Scholars provides the Fellow with a place to work, a courtesy appointment in an appropriate department, library privileges at all member institutions, and proximity to others with similar goals.

Please contact the Associated Colleges office for more information.

THE NORTH COUNTRY YOUNG PROFESSIONALS ORGANIZATION

This organization was established to connect and engage the young professionals in the North Country by providing networking, community involvement and social activities. It demonstrates that the North Country has a vibrant and dynamic lifestyle that many young professionals seek.

Members use this group to meet fellow young professionals, network, plan informal and formal events, and ask questions about their adopted hometowns.

Find the “North Country Young Professionals” on Facebook, or by email to nocoyp@googlegroups.com.
Dual Career Services

The Associated Colleges of the St. Lawrence Valley offers assistance to spouses and partners of newly appointed faculty and administrative staff who are seeking meaningful employment in the North Country.

Through an agreement with a local employment placement agency, the Associated Colleges will help facilitate employment for dual career couples. For those who register and are approved for this service, the employment agency will provide a welcome to the North Country region and one-on-one career counseling.

Career counseling includes resume review and refinement, a review of specific job openings, a review of regional employers, networking, and more. Insights are provided concerning area organizations that hire employees with skills and qualifications that are similar to those of the job seeker. Assistance is available to generate job leads and interviews.

Referrals are facilitated by the human resources office of the host institution.

Chartered by the New York State Board of Regents in 1970, the Associated Colleges of the St. Lawrence Valley is a not-for-profit consortium of Clarkson University, SUNY Canton, SUNY Potsdam, and St. Lawrence University. Each of these member institutions has a distinct character, history and curriculum and among them they bring a wealth of educational opportunities to northern New York. The consortium is a regional, multipurpose organization which fosters cooperative endeavors in a range of academic and administrative areas. These endeavors are organized to augment and complement programs of the universities.

Together we can do more.
